

Itinerary

September 2008

- 09.21 Phoenix
State Capitol
Heard Museum
Scottsdale
- 09.22 Sedona
Tlaquepaque
Red Rock Canyons
- 09.23 Flagstaff
Meteor Crater
Petrified Forest
Lowell Observatory
- 09.24 Prescott
Montezuma Castle
Sharlot hall Museum

Resources

Michael Chanin. The Chief's Blanket

Coyote & Little Turtle: A Traditional Hopi Tale

Sara Hoagland Hunter. The unbreakable code

Gerald McDermott. Arrow to the Sun; a Pueblo Indian Tale

Michael Lacapa. The Flute Player : an Apache Folktale

We went to the Heard Museum and learned about the 22 Native American tribes in Arizona. I loved doing crafts.

Tlaquepaque is an artist village with cute galleries and shops. It looks like old Mexico.

The Pink Jeep Tour took us to see the red rock canyons of Sedona.

Meteor Crater is the best preserved crater on Earth. The Holsinger Meteorite is the largest fragment found.

At the Petrified National Forest, we saw logs that turned into colorful stones. We also saw 4 prong-horns and a cottontail.

Montezuma Castle is a pueblo with 20 rooms on a cliff. It was built by prehistoric Native Americans called Sinaguans.

Prescott was Arizona's first capital. The Sharlot Hall Museum tells about the history of Arizona.

At Lowell Observatory I learned about stars and planets. I looked through a famous old telescope called Clark.